Abstract. These guidelines are provided for authors submitting abstracts to the 2nd International Conference on Smart Functional Materials and Sustainable Technologies (SmartMat 2026), to be held at the Faculty of Sciences of Sfax (FSS), Tunisia, on 23–24 November 2026. The abstract should not exceed one page and must be written in English. It should clearly summarize the objective, methodology, main results, and conclusions of the work, highlighting the novelty and its relevance to the conference topics.

Introduction

The SmartMat 2026 Conference brings together researchers, engineers, and scientists working on smart, bio-based, and eco-friendly functional materials to promote sustainable technologies. This event provides a multidisciplinary platform for exchanging knowledge and fostering collaborations in material science, sensing, and energy systems.

Methodology

The one-page abstract should include a concise description of the problem addressed, motivation, methodology, and principal findings, supported by one representative figure if necessary.

Results and Discussion

Present the core findings and major contributions of the work. Clearly indicate the significance and potential applications related to sustainable materials, energy harvesting, or environmental technologies.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this work highlights the potential of the developed material as a promising candidate for sustainable technological applications. The obtained results demonstrate its relevant properties and suggest opportunities for improving material performance, efficiency, and environmental sustainability.
