

Special Call of the German Academic Exchange Service for Ukrainian, Russian and Belarusian Students and Doctoral Students as well as members of other nations who had to flee Ukraine due to the war

The German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) provides TU Chemnitz with financial means in order to support international students with scholarships in 2024. Eligible are undergraduate students (Diploma, Magister, and Bachelor) as well as graduate students (Master) and PhD-students. Applicants have to be enrolled at TU Chemnitz in order to obtain one of the degrees mentioned above (Exception: Contact Scholarship).

Monthly award:	min. 500,00€ (scholarship rate depends on number of scholarships, possible reductions due to additional income)
Duration:	up to 12 months
Start:	approx. June 2024 (retroactive funding also possible)
Application deadline:	19 April 2024

Types of Scholarships:

(1) Completion Scholarships

Eligible are international students who have been demonstrating well-developed academic skills during their studies; their theses are to be completed within 12 months. Moreover, Completion Scholarships aim at supporting students who suffer financial hardship through no fault of their own. Financial aid allows scholarship holders to focus on completing their theses.

(2) Scholarships for particularly engaged students

Eligible are international students who have been demonstrating well-developed academic skills during their studies. Furthermore, they are particularly engaged in international affairs at TU Chemnitz. This includes, for example, the professional and academic support of international students and doctoral candidates.

(3) Contact scholarships

Eligible are international students from partner universities of TU Chemnitz or from foreign universities which TU Chemnitz is planning co-operations with in order to strengthen international partnerships.

(4) scholarships for more equal opportunities

Eligible are international students who face special challenges during their studies (e.g. refugees, people with disabilities or chronic illnesses, people with special care situations for children and those in need of care). The scholarship can be awarded for a maximum of 12 months
