

A Boundary Element Based Finite Element Method on Polyhedral Meshes

Ulrich Langer¹ David Pusch²

We derive and analyze new boundary element based finite element discretizations of diffusion-type equations on polyhedral meshes. These approximations leads to large-scale sparse linear systems which can efficiently be solved by Algebraic Multigrid Methods.

¹Johannes Kepler University Linz, Institute for Computational Mathematics, Altenbergerstr. 69,
A-4040 Linz, Austria, ulanger@numa.uni-linz.ac.at

²Johann Radon Institute for Computational and Applied Mathematics (RICAM), Austrian Academy of Sciences, Linz, Austria, david.pusch@oeaw.ac.at